

Extend Lifetime. Cut Costs – manroland Goss web systems at WPE 2018

Innovative and reliable for the future.

With a joint reputation as leaders in web offset printing, the recently combined manroland Goss web systems, the merged company of manroland web systems and Goss International, will be exhibiting at World Publishing Expo (WPE) 2018, Hall 21a, Booth F.08 in Berlin from October 9 to 11, 2018. While there, the mission of manroland Goss to serve the market will be communicated to the industry, with the company's promise to deliver even greater value to stakeholders, equipment owners, and global print markets.

What does the industry need today? What is modern newspaper production like? What does automation mean for newspaper printers? manroland Goss aspires to answer these and many other questions in the framework of the world's biggest trade fair for newspaper printing.

The requirements of the modern market evolving at a fast pace call for continuity, stability and security with regard to the systems' life cycles. Moreover, they also call for creative new business models. Today, more than ever before, manroland Goss is the highly effective business partner for the printing industry and presents reliable and innovative solutions for these challenges. These solutions include comprehensive service and aftermarket offers and smart solution retrofits as well as the further development of the newspaper press series and extend to completely new, flexible production models.

The increase in global presence and stability for manroland Goss as a unified business entity has allowed the company to focus directly on the needs of customers. The combination of complementary competencies and joint use of the broad portfolio of equipment and patents opens the doors for creative innovations and developments in packaging, automation, process digitization, and e-commerce.

The team at manroland Goss is ready to take questions and share insights on how the company's solutions can add value to any pressroom at WPE 2018, hall 21a, booth F.08. For media appointments please register at publicrelations@manrolandgoss.com
