

2001: 'Celts are Cool but Romans Rule'

'Title: Celts are Cool but Romans Rule

Produced by: The Chester Chronicle

Country: United Kingdom

Language: English

Category: History

• Description: A 30-page booklet aimed at teaching children about the Roman city and the Celtic community. Eight local primary school teachers wrote the workbooks after meeting with education advisors, archaeologists, educational historians and the newspaper team. The books compared and contrasted the way of life of the Celts and Romans.

• Audience: Ages 8-12

• Results: The overall view of the project was favorable. The children thought the title and the book were cool and teachers were happy with the balance of fun, facts, gore and humor that were involved.
